We are announcing SMCGSI has partnered with the Ancestry.com World Archives Project to preserve historical records. Ancestry.com, the world's largest online family history resource, created the World Archives Project to empower individuals everywhere to index, or transcribe, historical data and publish a permanent archive of the data online. Through this partnership, we will index important community records which Ancestry.com will add to its site, making the records searchable and more easily accessible for others pursuing their family history research. All indexes created through the World Archives Project will remain accessible for free on Ancestry.com. Ancestry.com will also donate a digital copy of the index and images of the original records back to SMCGSI for all projects it sponsors. As a result Ancestry.com will be coming to our area on March 6th, 2010 for the Day of Genealogy. Program details for the day will be forth coming soon, please visit our website www.smcgsi.org
